Refugees in the Workforce Photo Contest

From cabinet makers, to bakers and microbiologists, refugees contribute to the vitality and diversity of today's workforce. Take part in the "Refugees in the Workforce" Photo Contest in order to help us showcase refugee workers and supportive employers in your community.

Submit a photo of your choice that documents refugee workers by June 15, 2008. The winning photograph will be used as the centerpiece in a professional poster promoting refugees in the workforce, and will also receive two scholarships (for the winner and a colleague) to attend one of RefugeeWorks' 2009 Employment Training Institutes. One scholarship for an Employment Training Institute will go to the runner-up.

By submitting your entry, you agree to allow RefugeeWorks use and edit your photograph in its print and electronic publications, including the RefugeeWorks website (www.refugeeworks.org). Your submission also serves as authorization that the individuals and companies in your photo have agreed upon the photo's use for RefugeeWorks' website and other publications.

To be considered, your photo must:

- be in color (sorry no black and white, sepia, or other monotone);
- be submitted in jpg/JPEG format only;
- be between 640x480 to 800x600 pixels (larger images will be resized; smaller ones will not be used if deemed too small).

Send your entries to information@refugeeworks.org and write "photo contest" in the subject line.
